New 2014 Dates!

After 40 years of teaching at the Amsterdam and The Hague conservatories, famous baroque violinist Lucy van Dael continues to do so at the splendid castle "Warmelo" in the Twente region of the Netherlands. <http://www.kasteelwarmelo.nl/information.html>

Four-day masterclasses are organised for those postgraduates who want to refine and perfect their baroque violin playing. The teaching will be individual but everyone can listen to each other's lessons. In the evening we will play chamber music.

The main topics will be:

- J.S. Bach solo violin sonatas
- Stylus Phantasticus
- French and Italian violin sonatas
- different styles of embellishment and improvisation.

See below for dates and application.

Courses dates for 2014 are:

June 24th – 27th

Reactions to previous courses:

"it was one of the most fascinating masterclasses I've ever been to. Lucy teaches in her own house, a castle in beautiful country side. It helps to concentrate on your studies a lot. I did like the combination of one-to-one lessons with group lessons, morning warm up and improvisation routine. Highly professional. I felt very positive leaving the masterclass and would definitely recommend it to others. "

(Olga Popova)

"Thank you for wonderful days of violin lessons at your castle in the countryside! It was great to have your lessons and hear your stories, and learn about performance practice. Walking around the beautiful nature or watching the bright stars at night let me digest all of this information. For me it felt like old baroque times, everybody learning together, playing together, eating together (delicious home-made meals!) and changing ideas. I'm really looking forward to the next time!"

(Rie Kimura)

"The most important for me was to be enlightened about the performing practice of early music. I believe I would continue to progress with a good start. And I'll never forget the beauty of Warmelo and the happy days there."
